THE STUDENT ASSOCIATION

Handbook

MASSACHUSETTS SCHOOL OF ART
BROOKLINE AND LONGWOOD AVES.
BOSTON 15 MASSACHUSETTS

Editorial

As with the colleges and professional schools throughout the country, the Massachusetts School of Art is challenged by unprecedented demands. The post war interest in adequate professional training on the part of the veterans and current high school graduates has increased the enrollment of our institution to the highest number in its history. We now know what it means to function at capacity.

The curriculum has been organized to meet current and future needs with the result that several pertinent courses have been introduced. As students, we are stimulated by the growth. We are conscious of the keener competition and are striving to meet the challenge. Any future analysis should reveal adequately prepared art educators and artists for both the commercial and fine art fields of expression. An outsider visiting our studios or workshops could not help but be impressed by the enjoyment we realize as we work together. The deep roots of art affect our living. In our search for the true significance of art, we become increasingly conscious of the direct correlation between living creatively and living in a democracy. We daily realize that our responsibility will be more than just to produce tangible art objects. We must learn to adjust ourselves to a social order, respecting the thoughts and creative products of our fellow citizens. This understanding can result in a type and degree of happiness that is lasting. We possess the gift of fine group relationships. The stronger these roots become, the greater will be the benefits we realize from cooperation.

The administration, faculty and students have assisted me in the compilation of the material for this handbook. I thank them sincerely.

VINCENT J. TRINGALE, Editor

A stylized, high-contrast illustration in a reddish-brown color. The background features a city skyline with several tall, thin smokestacks or chimneys. From the base of these stacks, a series of thick, dark, wavy lines emerge, resembling smoke or a winding path that leads towards the foreground. The lines are thick and have a slightly textured appearance. In the upper right, a rectangular frame with a halftone pattern contains the text 'student' in a bold, sans-serif font, and 'ASSOCIATION' in a larger, bold, sans-serif font below it. The overall style is graphic and modern, typical of mid-20th-century design.

The Student Association

The present Student Association was organized in 1922 on a plan presented to the school by the principal, Dr. Royal B. Farnum. While it is not precisely a student government, the Association has many of the functions of such an organization and is an integral factor in student life. It is primarily an agency for the promotion and supervision of social life and extra-curricular activities, and it has sole control of the financial affairs involved in student enterprises.

The political structure of the Association consists of two inter-related units: the Council of the whole and the Advisory Board. The Council of the whole is the entire membership of the Association, which includes every paid member in the school. The legislative power is vested in this Council, and it must pass on all amendments to the Association's constitution and may make decisions on important questions affecting the policy of the Association. The executive power is possessed by the Advisory Board. This Board includes the Association officers, the class presidents, the heads of the various student organizations, and a faculty committee. It has the general direction of all student activities. One of the most important duties of the Association is the administration of finances for the various school organizations. The funds received annually from the collection of membership fees are budgeted among the different classes and clubs. Each organization is credited with a specified sum and its expenses are paid from this amount by the Association treasurer as requested by the organization's treasurer. This method centralizes responsibility and simplifies business relations between school organizations and outside concerns.
